The Chronicle and Directory for 1671. FIRHIS Work, now in the WINTH year of its existence, will be published as early as practicable after the close of the current year; It will be compiled and printed at the Daily Press Office, as usual, from the best and most authentic sources, and no pains will be spared to make the work complete in all respects.

In addition to the usual varied and voluminous information, the value of the "Chronicle and Directory for 1871" will be further augmented by the addition of a Chromo-lithograph plate of the NEW CODE OF SIG-NALS in use at the Peak; also of the various HOUSE FLAGS; a MAP OF HONGKONG; a MAP OF JAPAN; and a CHART OF THE COAST; besides other local information and statistics corrected to date of 'publication, tending to make this work the vade mecum for all Public, Mercantile and General Offices.

The Publisher requests that those persons who have not yet returned the printed forms which have been sent to them to fill up, will be good enough to do so without delay. Any persons who have recently arrived, and to whom printed forms have not been sent, are respectfully requested to forward their names and addresses as early as possible for insertion.

HONGRONG, NOVEMBER 12TH, 1870.

Thu intelligence brought by the Mail stenmer from Shanghai, which arrived this morning, explains the precise position of affairs with regard to the Tientsin Massacre. Count MEJAN, the French Consul General at Shanghai, has communicated to the Chamber of Commerce there the despatches from Count' Rochechovaur, the French Minister at Pekin, embodying a statement of the measures which the Chinese have taken in compensation for the outrage. They are in substance the same as these already mentioned in this paper, and the statement by a contemporary that they had been accented by the French Charge d'Affairs proves to be, as was generally suspected, without any toundation. Count Rockechouarr says, in his despatch : "I have neither approved nor but very little almost to force foreign powers disapproved of this programme, which was not mine, and which moreover, has already been executed. The Chinese Government, at my request, has sent Chung How as ambassador to France, to explain his conduct and clear himself (le faire agreer) if he can-I cannot, therefore, before the termination of this Mission, prejudge the final decision of my government, but I amable and called upon to bring to your knowledge from this day, that it is my conviction that there is not at all events for the time being (pour le moment), any danger of the sad events at Tientsin being seen recurring in other parts of China." Count ROCHECHOUART takes occasion to state that he had not heard of Chen-Ewo-shwai before the Massacre, and that this personage had not been found mixed up in any of the affaires concerning which the French Charge d'Affaires has had as vet to treat. He also mentions that a letter written by M. FONTANIER day when he was massacred formed the strongest (le plus fort) argufavour of the innocence of CHUNG How. He adds that he has on all occasions found his colleagues at Pekin willing to second the efforts which he made, and that although he from time to time insisted on various points, he had never formularised his demands as a sine qua non-

The exact settlement which the Chinese but there are equally strong grounds against have proposed to come to is that Tls. 250,000 it. and it is well that we should carefully are to be paid as indemnity for the lives lost, note the direction in which affairs are now Tls. 210,000 as compensation for the losses caused; and the Prefect and Magistrate and twenty-four other of the rioters are exiled to the Amoor. 'It is sickening in the extreme to read through the formal and cold blooded despatch in which Paince Kung announces the compensation which the Chinese intend to give. After a few vapid expressions of conventional regret, the various victims are put down each at his price-M. Fortanier Tls. 30,000, Mons. Simon Tls. 20,000, Madame CHALLEMAISON TIS, 10,000, and so on.—Tls. 130,000 for the Church, and finally follows the list of decapitions of wretches employed to commit the deed by the Mandarins who are each and all permitted to escape, as not a single Chinaman believes that the "banishment" will be anything else than appointment to some other post.

Upon the principle that coming events case their shadows before them, the rumour which has for some time gone about to the effect that the office of Inspector General of Customs is to be abolished, and a joint cosmopolitan commission appointed in its place, are creepers off the retaining walls of the estaworthy of some consideration. This rumour is not altogether a new one, although it now comes forward in a more definite a same than cents, in default, six hours quiet repose in the it had before assumed. For a long time it | castle of Giant Grim. has been stated to be likely that more than Lum Ayor, s bricklayer, reported by C.P.C. one Inspector of Customs would be appointed. French, and American Inspectors. The changes which have gradually taken place in the Customs dually taken place in the Customs dually taken place in the Customs Service, during the last five or six years also lend a colouring of probability to the rumours of the Customs of the foot of the flower o which have obtained circulation. There has been an undisguised effort to make the service as completely cosmopolitan as possible; being unlawfully in a certain Government and the efforts to carry out this principle Institution, situated in Brydges street, and have at times assumed a ridiculous aspect, The first of these illegal much rates was an when gentlemen belonging to nations having habitual old offender, he was fixed 50 cents. no interest in the China trade, have been appointed to posts of the utmost importance, as, for example, " the competent engineer from Holland" to preside over the whole of the light-houses and bearons to be placed at to find security in one householder in $25

Having made use of the British Government to establish the Protectorate of Customs, the Chinese have shown themselves extremely they had sucked out the juice, and by means | being rather in favor of the woman. of employing foreigners of all nationalities to make themselves independent of the aid which they willingly accepted to not an efficient Custom's Service in foot. To this no very great objection can be raised, as so long as the Customs service is reasonably well managed, as must be admitted to be the case at the present day, the Chinese Authorities have of course a perfect right to conduct the arrangements of the office as they think best, and to employ such persons as they consider most likely to serve their ends. But of late years the Customs' Service, or more accurately speaking the Inspector Ge-HART went to Pekin in 1866, he has been

P. the British Minister could make any progress whatever in the negotiations for the revision of the Treaty. Under these circumstances the question of changing the office of the Inspector General of Customs into a joint osmopolitan board has an important political significance. So far as its effect on the bably not make any great alteration in the state of affairs now existing. The service is already completely cosmopolitan, and the fact that the head department was under the direction of a board, instead of an individual would not be of any great significance so far as the internal arrangements were concerned, though it would of course tend to impair the efficiency of the service, as the direction of one head is essential to the proper conduct of any administrative organisation. But the change would be of inculculable importance in its political bearing. If the joint Inspectors mixed up in political affairs as much as Mr. HART has done of late, a new and it is remarks which had been made elsewhere, connot impossible a dangerous element would be imported into Chinese politics. Whether a joint Protectorate of China by the Treaty Powers could ever be established, and if so whether such a sten would be advisable, it is impossible to say with our present lights. But if such a plan as that suggested above were carried out, matters would have been forms, passes, &c., which had now to be issued. then they might be left to the open sky. worked up to such a pitch that it would take to adopt a step of that kind. A species of semi-foreign Government would be established at Pekin, whose power it would soon be found would extend in all directions, and when this system became thoroughly developed, would probably be very difficult for foreign powers to refuse to give it their support. It Hongkong and Shanghaiwould be premature to say that some such plan would not meet the exigencies of foreign relations with China, provided due care were taken that it should be made to work in such a way as to secure our Treaty rights; but it is quite possible that it might tend in the opposite direction, and be merely another means in the hands of the Chinese for staying progress. Admirably as the Tuspectorate of Customs has worked administratively; approved by the Post office at home after the The ATTORNEY GENERAL and there was no dent department I do not see that it can possibly there is no doubt that its political influence has been retrogressive, and that Mr. HART instrument in the hands of the Chinese for advancing their exclusive views, and keeping back the march of civilisation and commerce. It is, therefore, a serious question whether "a further development of the system which has gradually been worked up by the Customs would not tend to throw new obstructions in the way of any real progress in China. There are, no doubt, plausible grounds in favor of such a plan as there deserves the thanks of the Community for having placed the subject in a tolerably clear light. I think, however, that he takes far too limited a view of the question. The Ordinance for regulating the Chinese is not the only statute under which the natives in this Colony are governed, or misgoverned, as you may see fit to designate it. Without alluding to minor enactments, there is the Gambling Ordinance which works directly into the executive administration of the Colony, and any reformation that is made must certainly be brought to bear upon the manner in which the provisions of this engetment are carried out. It is stated, that the proprietors of the houses have to call in the assistance of Mr. Caldwell and a been made at a cost of 2600 for the cast swarm of runners to discover criminals in these establishments. Now, if this is the case, I cmsay they would not build? The grant would, of | phatically any we want revolution, and not reform, in this particular department—we

And app also, with respect to the district watchmen, nothing will put that matter right. It is coutrary to every dictate of common sense, and productive of so much abuse, that it ought to be put down altogether. I do not see that any half measures will do in these matters, and they are the chief ones to which attention has been called, and which most argently require

Chinese generally, I am strongly of opinion that the system at force in Hongkong is wrong altogether, and that we do not want a separate kind of government for the natives; but we do want efficient men to let them know what the any laws are in the simplest possible way, and, t not much facilitate matters if a statement to the Governor as if he were sitting in that above all, in a way that is understood by the public generally, in place of by proclamations issued in Chinese of which the foreign community know nothing. LOUIS NAPOLEON'S MEMORY. Napoleon III. had an extraordinary memory or pames, figures, faces and miscellaneous facts. A German professor, who was called to Paris in connection with the publication of the "Vis de Casar," relates that it was Napoleon's invariable habit, on having communicated to a name or a number, or any brief fact which be wished to remember, to write it down in a note book kept exclusively for that purpose, and which always lay upon his desk; After writing down the memorandum, he would tear the leat out of the book read it over attentively, and then tear the less up. And he told the profesa r'that after impressing a fact on his mind by this process, he never forgot it. The key to this extraordinary family of memory doubt less lies in the fact that, during his long years of imprisonment, in early life, he did not dare to carry important memoranda about him. He was obliged to rely on his memory; but that he did not at first trust it altogether, is seen by the fact that, through the force of habit, he is still obliged to make sure of a fact by writing it down, and so fixing it in his mind, instead of trusting entirely to the sense of hearing to not-

upon his memory.

THE SLAVE TRADE IN THE PACIFIC: The Bonolulu Commercial Advertiser, of a late date, notices the fact the a San Salvador sbip. the Dolores Ugarts was in the outer harbor with 584 Coolies, last from Macao, and bound for Calino. The ship Henry VII which touched a short time before, lost 270 of her chattels between that port and Callao. The Captain of the Ugarte, desiring to deliver his cargo in better condition, had applied for leave to land them in squads of fifty for an airing. The ship had all the appurtenances of an old time slaver, barricades, sentinels, etc. The Advertiser object . to making the Hawaiian Islands the half way house of the slave trade. But the Hawaiian Government has encouraged this very business. only in a milder form. It has introduced Coolie labor on the Islands, and while these Coolies may have been treated humanely the precedent was a bad one. These men are brought there bound by a certain contract made abroad, and which is enforced on the Islands The slave trade is rife in the Pacific. If every ship engaged in this business were blown out of water it would be a good thing for humanity. All the atracities of the African blave trade, and the horrors of the middle passage. may be found on board these coolie ships. The San Salvador flag has recently been found very convenient bunting for boisting over any aliip about to engage in a questionable business.-

THE PRUSSIAN MILITARY SYSTEM.

(Pall Mall Gazetto) The Prussian military system has been often explained; but at the present moment, when is producing such tremendous results, it may not be inopportune to inquire once again it what it consists. Those who wish to inform themselves fully on the subject can hardly do better than consult a Blue book which was lately presented to Parliament, to accompany the report of the Royal Commission on Military Education. This Blue-book, which contains Accounts of the Systems of Military Education in France, Prussia, Austria, Bavaria, and the United States," gives the o'earest descrip tion of the Prussian military system that we have met with. As this report, which was compiled by Captain Hozier, the secretary to the Commission, is correct up to date, and is based upon official information carefully collected. it may be accepted as a perfectly trustworthy account of the system under which Prussia is

The military forces of the North German Confederation consist of three bodies, viz.: the standing army—a, active, b. reserve: 2. the Landwehr; 3, the Landsturm. With certain exceptions, every male citizen becomes liable on attaining the age of twenty years to military service. That service consists, in the first of which the first three are with the active and the last four with the reserve portion of the army. During his active service the soldier is continually with the troops. During his reserve hervice he is on forlough, performing no-regular military duty, but liable to be called out during the four years for two periods of exercise with the active force, each limited to a maximum duration of eight weeks. In the event of war breaking out or becoming imminent the reserves are at once recalled to the ranks. The active force bears a fixe 1 proportion of I per cent, to the whole population of the country. The Landwebr consists of the menwho have completed their seven years of regular service. The Landwehr service is five years. The Landwehr is liable in the event of war to be sent on foreign service; it forms a distinct hody from the regular army. In peace time the Landwehr is not liable to be called out for more than two periods not disceding a fortnight each; it is then attached to the divisions I the active army to which they belong. There s row no Landwehr cavalry. "an increased orce of that arm in the standing army baving mite recently been substituted for the Land well'r cavalry of former days." The other arms. owever-infantry, artillery, and train-are er recented in the Landwehr.

This brings the soldier down to the end of his thirty second year, after twelve years soldiering spent as follows:-In the Regular Active Army, 3 years, between ages of 20 and 23. In the Regular Reserve Army, 4 years, between ages of 23 and 27 In the Landwehr, 5 years, between ages of 27 and 32; total 12 vents.

For another ten years—that is to say, until he has attained the age of forty-two-the citizen still retaine a liability to military service. MOR scope and practical service-this Work stands unrivalled. All the pew words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in aperion for delicate constitutions, especially adapted for solience generally, which the rapid advance of Ledies, Children, and Infants, and for regular use in foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extense. Each and every word is Dinnerone & Co. Chemiste, London, and of Druggisla fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the acconts being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typo: OELLEBRATED.
